Motorist Killed In Newark As Tree Crushes Auto; Other Buckeye State Points Swept; Poles Down Here

The storm, which did hundreds of thousands of dollars of property damage in Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin, ripped through Ohio this morning, accompanied by high winds, inflicting property damage in Salem and vicinity.

The sewer at the Garfield-Main intersection was overflowing with water flooding the street from Sunday night's rainstorm, which was accompanied by thunder and lightning but no other damage was reported by the city service department.

HEART ATTACK CLAIMS LIFE OF MYRON HERRICK

American Envoy Dies In French Capital Sunday Afternoon

PLAYED BIG ROLE DURING WORLD WAR

High Officials Express Sorrow At Passing Of Ohioan

Paris, April 1.—France and the United States were joined today in mourning the passing of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, most beloved of American envoys sent to this country since the days of Benjamin Franklin.

Diplomats here representing countries of the world over joined the highest officials of France in expressing their sorrow at the death of the popular American envoy.

The ambassador who won the hearts of France and the other allies in 1914 by braving the German advance and remaining in Paris although the French government moved to Bordeaux, died with a smile on his lips at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon after an acute heart attack.

He aided American tourists who were held in Paris by the war. He also took over the representation of the German-Austrian interests in France.

With the German army advancing on Paris and airplanes dropping bombs on the city, Herrick was notified that the French government was planning to retire to Bordeaux, and that practically the entire diplomatic corps would accompany it.

"If my government will permit me I am going to stay here," the American ambassador announced simply. "Paris is a center of art and culture belongs to the world. Somebody ought to stay."

Refused To Leave

He refused to leave even when military authorities informed him that the Germans were planning to blow up the French capital unless the government surrendered. At this time President Poincare entrusted to the American ambassador the safeguarding of France's art treasures.

Herrick used his personal credit with the American bank to finance the departure to Bordeaux of a number of neutral diplomats.

When the battle of the Marne turned the tide in favor of the French, Herrick had made preparations to go out and beseech German military leaders to spare Paris.

The ambassador's heart collapse resulted from a bronchial cold. His resistance to the cold had been weakened by fatigue resulting from his part in Marshal Foch's funeral last Tuesday. Despite his 74 years, he had walked bareheaded in the funeral cortege from Cathedral Notre Dame to Les Invalides and (Continued on Page 4)

TREASURY TO SHOW SURPLUS

Prospects Indicate June Balance Will Near $150,000,000

Washington, April 1.—The government went into the last quarter of the fiscal year today with prospects of a surplus on June 30 of approximately $150,000,000.

The surplus may be even larger.

The estimate was based on the assumption that congress will not make appropriations at the special session calling for immediate expenditure of large amounts.

March collections of income and corporation taxes amounted to approximately $600,000,000, indicating probable revenue of $2,285,000,000 from this source for the year.

Customs receipts for the year probably will reach $590,000,000 and miscellaneous receipts about $621,000,000 with total income around $4,000,000,000.

Along with increases in income taxes and customs receipts expenditures were likewise piling up and it appeared that operation of the government for 1929 would require about $3,850,000,000 or more.

Refunds of taxes up to April 1 were $158,000,000, as compared to a total of $148,000,000 for the entire 12 months of the year ending last June.

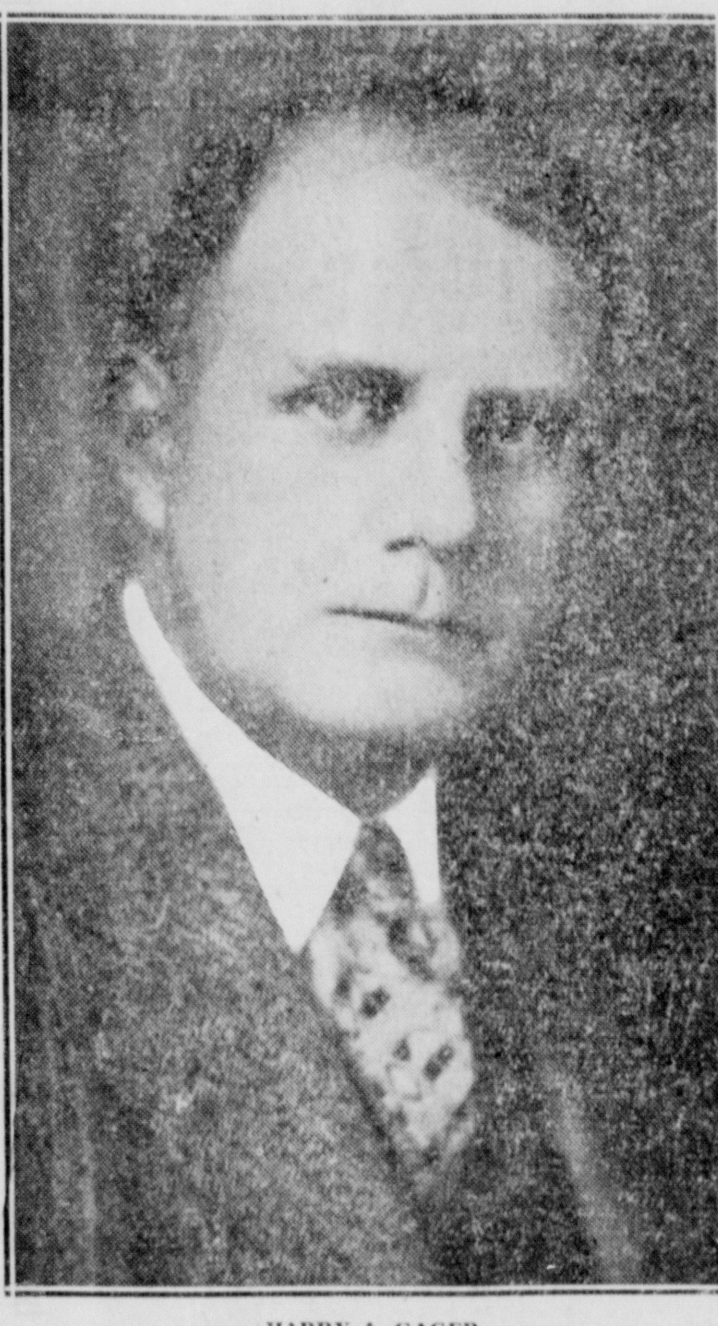

This was one of the principal increases in governmental outlay. Interest will amount to approximately $660,000,000 a drop of $70,000,000 or more from the year before.

Farm Relief Group To Ask Hoover Aid In Framing Bill

President Has Refused to Draft Bill, But Leaders Feel Close Contact Will Prevent Possible Veto After Special Session

Washington, April 1.—Despite the refusal of President Hoover to draft a farm relief bill for congress, his advice and approval will be sought upon every important phase of the legislation to be worked out by the senate and house agriculture committees.

Both Senator McNary of Oregon, and Rep. Haugen of Iowa, chairmen, respectively, of the senate and house committees, expect to consult Mr. Hoover frequently during the ten days which will be utilized to write the bill for the special session.

Adoption of this course, congressional farm relief leaders believe, will obviate the possibility of a bill being passed which would be vetoed by the president.

While Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will testify before both senate and house committees this week, there is little expectation that he will submit a definite farm relief plan.

The secretary has already indicated that he would confine himself to giving expert information of the department and to opinions upon the general commitments of the Republican party platform.

In the meantime representatives of the leading farm organizations are meeting daily in an effort to unite upon one bill, something which they have never been able to do before. The cooperative marketing associations of the nation having already adopted a plan somewhat at variance with the American Farm Bureau Federation attitude, there appeared little likelihood of a general agreement.

Louis J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio, master of the national grange, was to appear before the senate committee today to urge framing of a bill in accord with the campaign pledges of Mr. Hoover while Taber and his organizations are still sponsoring the debtors plan, under which tariff receipts would be used to pay an export bounty to farmers, he was said to be willing to abandon it for a measure acceptable to the president.

Prominent Salem Civic Leader Dies In Charity Hospital At Cleveland

Blood Transfusion Fails to Save Life Of President of Council; Was Prominent In Natural Gas Business

Harry A. Gager, 46, president of city council, civic and political leader in Salem and Columbiana county for many years, and prominent in the natural gas business in Ohio and Pennsylvania, died at 5:30 a. m., Monday at Charity hospital, Cleveland.

For six months Mr. Gager had been subject to gall stone attacks and last Tuesday he went to Cleveland to enter the hospital. An operation was performed Wednesday morning and for a few days his condition seemed to indicate that he would recover.

Sunday night there was a sudden change and a blood transfusion was resorted to in an attempt to save his life. He failed to respond to this treatment and died early Monday morning. With him at the hospital were Mrs. Gager and D. B. McCune, under whom he had served for 22 years in the gas business.

Harry A. Gager was born Jan. 7, 1883, in Salem, son of L. F. and Mary L. Gager. His father died when Harry was a boy and his mother preceded him in death only a few years ago.

Educated in the public schools, Mr. Gager was a news carrier as a boy and following the death of his father in 1901 he left school and became identified with the circulation department of The Salem News. He soon was transferred to the editorial department and served as reporter and city editor under Editors F. A. Douglass, W. B. McCord and R. B. Thompson.

Entered Gas Field In 1907

In 1907 Mr. Gager left the newspaper field to go with the Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, which had introduced natural gas into Salem three years previously. He continued to be actively identified with the business in its Ohio operations until the company became a part of the Ohio Fuel corporation in 1925. Then he became assistant general superintendent under D. B. McCune as general superintendent.

In 1926 the Ohio Fuel corporation merged with the Columbia Gas & Electric corporation. Then Mr. Gager became connected with the management of the Pittsburgh group of the Columbia system, with the title of special agent. He established his offices in the corporation's general offices at Pittsburgh and had spent much of his time there since.

Loyal to Salem

Consistently loyal to Salem and its interests, active in all civic projects, Mr. Gager's abilities as a leader early asserted themselves. He was a member of the Salem Business Men's association, later the Chamber of Commerce, serving as its president in 1917 and 1918. He was active in war work and took great pride in representing The News as special correspondent in New York when the 37th Ohio division returned from France in March, 1919.

His civic activities included a year's service as president of the Kiwanis club. He had been a (Continued on Page 5)

PRECEDING FARM POPULATION

The farm population of the United States is now the smallest twenty years, reports the U. S. department of agriculture, which estimates the farm population of 11,000 persons on January 1, 1909, as compared with a peak of 100,000 persons in 1909.

The bureau's estimate also shows decrease in farm population during the past year despite improved cultural conditions and a slight increase in industrial employment. At the January 1, 1929, figure comparing with a farm population of 27,699,000 persons on January 1, 1928.

The decrease in farm population the past year would have been much greater were it not offset by an excess of births over deaths, the figures revealing that in the movement of population from and to farms, 1,960,000 persons left farms during the year and 1,362,000 persons moved from cities to farm.

The movement away from farms slowed up somewhat during the year as compared with immediately preceding years, but the movement from cities to farms was also smaller. Thus it is shown that 1,960,000 persons left farms during the past year, compared with 1,978,000 in 1927, and with 2,155,000 in 1926.

The movement from cities to farms was 1,362,000 persons last year, 1,374,000 in 1927, and 1,135,000 in 1926.

The large farm birthrate of 23 births per 1,000 persons and small death rate of 8 deaths per 1,000 persons, has been a large factor offsetting the farm to city movement, so that the net loss of farm population last year was 188,000 persons, compared with 193,000 in 1927 and with 419,000 in 1926.

The bureau's figures show that in the New England states 65,000 persons left the farms last year and 60,000 went to farms; Middle Atlantic states 119,000 persons from farms and 93,000 persons to farms; East North Central 299,000 from farms and 213,000 to farms; West North Central 372,000 from farms and 232,000 to farms; South Atlantic 266,000 from farms and 190,000 to farms; East South Central 253,000 from farms and 167,000 to farms; West South Central 327,000 from farms and 204,000 to farms; Mountain 135,000 from farms and 95,000 to farms; Pacific 124,000 from farms and 103,000 to farms.

What Others Say

GENERAL LORD REMAINS

In retaining Brigadier General Herbert M. Lord as director of the bureau of the budget, President Hoover provides himself at the outset of his administration with a man who knows his work thoroughly, who has been unusually successful in a post that calls for perseverance, tact and courage in a high degree and who has developed throughout the government service an extraordinary amount of enthusiasm over the most tiresome and prosaic undertaking in the world—that of saving money.

General Daves, picturesquely waving a broomstick in the swiftest of the administrative officials of the government, fitted well into the picture as the first director of the experimental bureau of the budget. But General Lord has been a worthy successor. He has been no less enthusiastic over his task; but if General Daves adopted the policy of beating browns, General Lord may be said to have substituted one of soothing them. No man who returns an itemized list of proposed expenditure and directs the estimator to cut here and trim there can be expected to receive many bouquets of pretty promises for his pains. But General Lord's administration has been marked by the absence of bad feeling and friction.

His organization of the Woodpecker's club, open to members who save a few pennies for the government, and the Casualty club, open to those who fail to fill vacancies in personnel, may have invited ridicule and derisive laughter. But General Lord has closed his ears to such criticism, for he knows that it is possible to save money for the government only so long as it is possible to enlist the aid of every federal employee, and that this aid is best enlisted through dramatization of the cold and unattractive subject with which he deals. At any rate, his best reply to those who smile at his Woodpecker's club is to point out that the club is functioning. In other words, it works, and that is what he wanted it to do.—Washington Star.

COMPLICATIONS TO BE
(United States Senator from New York)

Most diseases, in and of themselves, are rarely fatal. One man could hardly win a battle. It requires an army to carry on a successful war.

One germ couldn't get far in producing disease. A whole crowd of germs rarely accomplishes terrible things. Is it a mixture of germs a sort of allied army of germs, that works havoc with our poor bodies.

To put it another way, it is the complications of disease that we most dread. It is these we must avoid.

When, O! when, will men and women learn that the way to escape the dangers of sickness is to give attention to the disease at its onset!

We have had another epidemic of influenza. We had a serious epidemic in 1919. We had a dreadful one in 1918. There have been lesser epidemics during this ten year period.

What have these experiences taught us? So far as the layman is concerned, I fear he has learned little, except to be scared at the mention of the word "epidemic."

The doctors have learned that almost nobody dies from influenza. The deaths are due to the complications of the disease.

On the day I am writing this I had a telegram that a friend of mine had been taken to the hospital for an operation. First, he had a mild attack of influenza and because he has a strong body, did not consider it worth while to go to bed or even to stay home.

The disease "went down in his lungs." First he had bronchitis and then pneumonia, involving one lung. This got better and then the other lung was involved.

Now, like King George, he has an abscess in the chest cavity. To the original germ of infection, has been added a pus germ of some sort.

No matter what the disease is, I beg of you not to neglect your trouble. The seriousness of the ailment will make certain that there will be no neglect when the aching ear, abscessed lung, or other complication arrives. There is such pain then that everybody is sent on the run for the doctor.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, April 2

THE astral influences for this day seem to work with paradox. While ambition and unusual activity are under high stimulus, yet certain configurations bespeak futility and failure.

There is danger from speculation and extravagance, as well as from impetuosity and turbulence. The employment is under a malefic way, as are new undertakings. In the end postponement and conservatism are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is are under a threat of a year of complexity and confusion. With the energies and aspirations under high stimuli yet the issues are not promising. Safeguard the employment and the finances, and postpone new ventures. A child born on this day may be ambitious and large minded, but his visions and plans may meet defeat. Yet it will do better on its own account than in the employment of others.

Fling away ambition; by that sin fell the angels.—Shakespeare.

Berlin—From an agent of the firm of Kristeller, which has plantations in the Kameruns, comes an account of a native girl brought up by apes. A hunter fired at a group of apes in trees. The one victim proven to be a negro woman. From her lack of customary tatoos marks it was concluded she had lived with the apes since childhood.

Drugs have been discovered by customs inspectors secreted in metal bedsteads, hallowed-out oranges, kitchen utensils with false bottoms and even woven into rugs.

Owa-Ton-Na Proves First Medicine
To Reach My Troubles

Suffering from Kidney and Stomach Disorders Respond to the Use of This Fine Old Indian Remedy Time After Time, Other Methods Failed

Surprising indeed are some of the marvelous benefits obtained by the use of this natural remedy, Owa-Ton-Na by eager health seekers. These results however, are not remarkable to one familiar with the good that has been accomplished by Owa-Ton-Na in thousands of cases all over this broad land. Time after time it has given new hope to discouraged suffering humanity.

These results are obtained not through the use of harmful, doping, deadening drugs; but by nature's own roots, herbs, barks and berries.

One of the interesting cases where Owa-Ton-Na has proved its merits is that of Mr. J. H. Grimm, 927 St. George St., E. Liverpool, long time resident and employed as a potter by Hall's China Co. He says, "It is certainly remarkable the way this medicine works. Why, for years I have been seeking something to relieve my stomach and kidney disorders. I had almost got to the point that I believed there would be nothing to help me."

"Almost any kind of food distressed me. Gas and bloating spells seemed to follow every meal, and would crowd my heart and cause me to palpitate and make me feel faint. My kidneys also caused me a great deal of trouble, dizzy spells and headaches were the results. At times it seemed that my whole body ached. Almost every night I was forced to get up on account of kidney and bladder weakness. When the fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na, started to do its work, I could notice a big change in my condition."

"I feel better now than I have for years and my appetite has improved wonderfully and food doesn't distress me as it used to. My kidneys, too, act more normal and each day I can see where Owa-Ton-Na is bringing me back to a more normal condition; and I know it won't belong until these old troubles are a thing of the past and believe me, I am not going to be without a bottle of Owa-Ton-Na in the house all the time. I recommend Owa-Ton-Na to all sufferers and know that if they give it a fair trial, they too, will benefit by its good results."

Owa-Ton-Na is nature's own remedy just a pure as eating celery, lettuce or dandelion. If you are suffering, why hesitate another day? Call at Flogging's J. H. Lease of Bolger & French and obtain a bottle of this fine old Indian Herb Remedy and give it a trial. It may mean the beginning of a new health and happiness for you.—Adv.

HERRICK'S SON BOUND TO PARIS

Son Advised By Phone Of Father's Death In France

Cleveland, April 1.—Parnely Herrick who returned from Paris only last Friday, was returning there today, having left last night for New York after he had learned of his father's death.

Mrs. Parnely Herrick, who remained in Paris, called her husband by transatlantic telephone early yesterday to advise that the ambassador was gravely ill. His son immediately began making preparations to return.

Advised of Death
Before he could leave, however, another call from Paris was received and his wife's voice transmitted through 3,000 miles of space, advised him, "Father is dead."

Parnely's son, Parnely, Jr., a student at St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., was to join his father at the Ritz-Carlton house in New York today and will probably accompany him to Paris. Parnely said, when he left here last night, that he could give no information of funeral arrangements.

Hundreds of telegrams and messages of condolence were received by Parnely yesterday afternoon.

One telegram came from President Hoover. The ambassador and his son were deeply attached to each other and the father once remarked, "I've done everything I could to spoil this boy but he isn't spoiled yet."

Parnely makes his home on his father's estate at Hunting Valley near here. The ambassador came here for a vacation of several months last summer and was visited by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on one occasion. Later he flew to Chicago with the famous aviator who has been his close friend since the historic meeting between the two at Paris on the completion of the first New York to Paris flight.

Returned To Paris
Ambassador Herrick returned to his post at Paris last Jan. 15. He had been gravely ill during the time he was here but friends were unable to dissuade the aged man from returning to his diplomatic duties.

The Herrick home was hushed today and the flag in the front yard was at half staff. Rollin A. Wilbur, vice president of the Herrick company, received callers at the home.

HERRICK

had remained throughout the ceremonies in the damp air for three hours.

At his bedside when the end came were his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Parnely Herrick, his social secretary Mme. Salambier and Blanchard, the faithful valet who had saved his life in October, 1922, when a bomb exploded in the embassy.

Two specialists in attendance were also present. Mrs. Herrick immediately notified her husband, the ambassador's son who was in Cleveland, by transatlantic telephone.

Retained Consciousness
To the end, Ambassador Herrick retained consciousness and appeared not to realize the seriousness of his condition.

Shortly after noon yesterday, he was seized with a short, violent attack similar to the one which almost caused his death at Chagrin Falls last January. Specialists were called. Although they said he had but a fighting chance to live, he fought the attack with characteristic bravery and soon was smilingly conversing with his daughter-in-law.

Shortly after four o'clock, however, while talking of arrangements for receiving Elihu Root who was scheduled to arrive here today, the ambassador suddenly sank backward against his pillow and died.

France is eager to render the highest honors to the beloved envoy. She is deferring her plans, however, until word is received from the United States government and the ambassador's family.

A national funeral in Paris has been suggested. It is also urged that the ambassador's body be brought to the United States aboard a French cruiser.

Pershing Makes Call
Premier Poincaré and President Doumergue immediately dispatched personal representatives to the American embassy with the sympathy of the French government when informed of the ambassador's death.

Among the first to call at the American embassy were Jules Jusserand, former French ambassador to Washington, and his wife. General Pershing came shortly after. A warm personal friend of the late ambassador, the general appeared to be greatly moved.

Myron T. Herrick was born in Wellington, O., a little northern Ohio, Lorain county, town, on Oct. 9, 1854. As a boy he worked on his father's farm and was educated in the country schools and at Oberlin College. He also attended Ohio Wesleyan from which he was graduated with honors. All the expenses of his higher education were paid with money which he earned himself from such widely divergent pursuits as a cinder salesman, school teacher, and from a series of articles which he wrote for a St. Louis newspaper.

Studies Law in Cleveland
He came to Cleveland in 1875 and set himself to the study of law and in 1878 after various studies and associations was admitted to the bar. In eight years he distinguished himself as a young attorney and then, in 1886, renounced the practice of law to become secretary and treasurer of the Cleveland Society for Savings, one of the strongest banks in the city.

He displayed an ability for finance as marked as that he had shown as a lawyer and was largely responsible for the continued success of the institution. In later years he was made president and chairman of the board of directors. He was also chairman of the board of the Union Carbide and Carbon company, a director of the New York Life Insurance company and engaged actively in other financial fields.

It was in 1883 that he first turned to political affairs. In that year he was elected to the Cleveland city council where he served for three years. A stalwart Republican, he gained the friendship of national leaders of the party, including William McKinley and Mark Hanna, who was then planning the nomination of McKinley for the presidency in 1896.

Enters Into Politics

Personal business prevented Herrick from accepting a number of important government posts in this period. He refused the embassy to Italy and declined to become secretary of the treasury three successive times, the position being offered him by McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

In 1903 Herrick was elected governor of Ohio, defeating Tem L. Johnson, famous Cleveland Democrat. Herrick was defeated, however, when he ran for re-election.

In 1912, President Taft appointed him ambassador to France. He returned to run for senator in 1916, but was defeated by Atlee Pomerene.

The most dramatic period in his career as ambassador came with the beginning of the World War in 1914. Herrick's death in many ways is comparable to the loss she felt when Marshal Foch died. Undesigned praise of his courage, ability, tact and human qualities are heard everywhere.

His talent for fostering international friendliness showed at its best when in 1927 he guided Col. Charles A. Lindbergh through the pitfalls of sudden worldwide fame by his hospitality and advice.

He has indicated that he will use all means at his command to defeat their efforts. Dr. Paul M. Lightning Freak
Ever wonder why the victim of a summer lightning stroke usually has the soles torn from his shoes? The explanation is in perspiration, says the Farm Journal. The lightning travels in a flash to the shoes where it encounters the moisture which is quickly converted into steam. The result is an explosion.

HERRICK'S SON BOUND TO PARIS

Son Advised By Phone Of Father's Death In France

Cleveland, April 1.—Pamely Herrick who returned from Paris only last Friday, was returning there today, having left last night for New York after he had learned of his father's death.

Mrs. Pamely Herrick, who remained in Paris, called her husband by transatlantic telephone early yesterday to advise that the ambassador was gravely ill. His son immediately began making preparations to return.

Before he could leave, however, another call from Paris was received and his wife's voice transmitted through 3,000 miles of space, advised him, "Father is dead."

Pamely's son, Pamely, Jr., a student at St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., was to join his father at the Ritz-Carlton house in New York today and will probably accompany him to Paris. Pamely said, when he left here last night, that he could give no information of funeral arrangements.

Hundreds of telegrams and messages of condolence were received by Pamely yesterday afternoon.

One telegram came from President Hoover. The ambassador and his son were deeply attached to each other and the father once remarked, "I've done everything I could to spoil this boy but he isn't spoiled yet."

Pamely makes his home on his father's estate at Hunting Valley near here. The ambassador came home for a vacation of several months last summer and was visited by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on one occasion. Later he flew to Chicago with the famous aviator who has been his close friend since the historic meeting between the two at Paris on the completion of the first New York to Paris flight.

Returned to Paris Ambassador Herrick returned to his post at Paris last Jan. 15. He had been gravely ill during the time he was here but friends were unable to dissuade the aged man from returning to his diplomatic duties.

HERRICK

had remained throughout the ceremonies in the damp air for three hours.

At his bedside when the end came were his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Pamely Herrick, his social secretary Mme. Salambier and Blanchard, the faithful valet who had saved his life in October, 1922, when a bomb exploded in the embassy. Two specialists in attendance were also present. Mrs. Herrick immediately notified her husband, the ambassador's son who was in Cleveland, by transatlantic telephone.

Retained Consciousness To the end, Ambassador Herrick retained consciousness and appeared not to realize the seriousness of his condition.

Shortly after noon yesterday, he was seized with a short, violent attack similar to the one which almost caused his death at Chagrin Falls last January. Specialists were called. Although they said he had but a fighting chance to live, he fought the attack with characteristic bravery and soon was smilingly conversing with his daughter-in-law.

Shortly after four o'clock, however, while talking of arrangements for receiving Elihu Root who was scheduled to arrive here today, the ambassador suddenly sank backward against his pillow and died.

France is eager to render the highest honors to the beloved envoy. She is deferring her plans, however, until word is received from the United States government and the ambassador's family.

A national funeral in Paris has been suggested. It is also urged that the ambassador's body be brought to the United States aboard a French cruiser.

Perishing Makes Call Premier Poincaré and President Doumergue immediately dispatched personal representatives to the American embassy with the sympathy of the French government when informed of the ambassador's death.

Among the first to call at the American embassy were Jules Jusserand, former French ambassador to Washington, and his wife. General Pershing came shortly after. A warm personal friend of the late ambassador, the general appeared to be greatly moved.

Myron T. Herrick was born in Wellington, O., a little northern Ohio, Lorain county, town, on Oct. 9, 1854. As a boy he worked on his father's farm and was educated in the country schools and at Oberlin College. He also attended Ohio Wesleyan, from which he was graduated with honors. All the expenses of his higher education were paid with money which he earned himself from such widely divergent pursuits as a rider salesman, school teacher, and from a series of articles which he wrote for a St. Louis newspaper.

Studies Law in Cleveland He came to Cleveland in 1875 and set himself to the study of law and in 1878 after various studies and associations was admitted to the bar. In eight years he distinguished himself as a young attorney and then, in 1886, renounced the practice of law to become secretary and treasurer of the Cleveland Society for Savings, one of the strongest banks in the city.

He displayed an ability for finance as shown by the fact that he had shown as a lawyer and was largely responsible for the continued success of the institution. In later years he was made president and chairman of the board of directors. He was also chairman of the board of the Union Carbide and Carbon company, a director of the New York Life Insurance company and engaged actively in other financial fields.

It was in 1885 that he first turned to political affairs. In that year he was elected to the Cleveland city council where he served for three years. A stalwart Republican, he gained the friendship of national leaders of the party, including William McKinley and Mark Hanna, who was then planning the nomination of McKinley for the presidency in 1896.

Enters Into Politics Personal business prevented Herrick from accepting a number of important government posts in this period. He refused the embassy to Italy and declined to become secretary of the treasury three successive times, the position being offered him by McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

In 1903 Herrick was elected governor of Ohio, defeating Tem L. Johnson, famous Cleveland Democrat. Herrick was defeated, however, when he ran for re-election.

In 1912, President Taft appointed him ambassador to France. He returned to run for senator in 1916, but was defeated by Atlee Pomerene.

The most dramatic period in his career as ambassador came with the beginning of the World War in 1914. France's reaction to Ambassador Herrick's death in many ways is comparable to the loss she felt when Marshal Foch died. Undesigned praise of his courage, ability, tact and human qualities are heard everywhere.

His talent for fostering international friendliness showed at its best when in 1927 he guided Col. Charles A. Lindbergh through the pitfalls of sudden worldwide fame by his hospitality and advice.

Washington, April 1.—Hugh S. Gibson, now ambassador to Belgium, will be Myron T. Herrick's successor as ambassador to France. International News Service was reliably informed here today.

Gibson, a career diplomat, sailed for Europe a few years ago after receiving instructions here as America's representative at the forthcoming disarmament discussions at Geneva. He is a native Californian and an intimate friend of President Hoover's, having been assigned to duty with him during much of his food relief work in Europe.

Children Find Body A newborn baby, found in a shallow hill-side grave near here, yesterday afternoon, lay in the morgue here today while police were investigating the case. The body of the infant was discovered by a group of boys and girls picking wild flowers. They came upon the spot where the earth had been disturbed and after digging to a shallow depth they came upon the body.

Winnetka, Ill.—Mrs. Oscar C. Helm is quite a driver. She found herself in her car on a grade crossing as an express was approaching on one track and a local train on another. She just stepped on the gas and bumped along the ties for 100 yards ahead of the local, then nonchalantly parked and boarded the train.

leader in the Democratic party in Salem and Columbiana county and was widely known in Ohio Democratic circles.

From 1908 to 1910 Mr. Gager represented the Second ward as a member of city council and served on the board of education from 1912 to 1914. He was clerk of the service department under Service Director James E. McNeelan and was serving the second year of his term as president of city council at the time of his death.

Democratic Leader
He was a member of the Columbiana county Democratic executive committee continuously from 1904 to 1929 and was a member of the Salem city and Perry township central committee for the same period. In 1924 he represented the 18th Ohio district as delegate to the famous Democratic national convention in New York.

Mr. Gager's interests allied him with many other organizations. He was a trustee of Hope Cemetery association and vice president and director of the Lyle Printing company. He was a member of the Salem Country club and of all the Masonic bodies in Salem, as well as Al Koran Shrine temple in Cleveland. With the enlargement of the gas organizations with which he was associated for so many years, Mr. Gager's business affairs took him into many sections of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New York and he soon became prominent in the natural gas fields. He was a member of the Ohio Gas & Oil Men's association having been on its advisory committee; was secretary of the Pennsylvania Natural Gas Men's association; member of the American Gas association; and was associate editor of "Hail Columbia," the Columbia system employees' magazine.

Pairings Made In Sectional Golf Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—Practically every leading woman golfer in the United States was included in the field of 126 entrants who lined off on the No. 2 course here this morning in the first round of the annual women's north and south championship. Most of the stars faced stiff competition at the very outset.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, the defending champion, was paired with Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Chicago, former western and north and south champion.

Miss Gienna Collett, the national champion, drew Miss Marion Turpin, of New Orleans, southern champion.

Bunion Derbyists Start Long Grind For Pacific Coast

Elizabeth, N. J., April 1.—A picturesque band of 76 marathon runners, sporting red, yellow and black jerseys and accompanied by the officials and ballyhoo squad in six light red automobiles, headed for Union, N. J., today on the second leg of C. C. Pyle's second annual trans-continental foot race.

At the end of the rainbow, in Los Angeles, a pot of gold amounting to $60,000 awaits the leaders who survive the grind. A first prize of $25,000 will go to the runner who leads the pack across mountain and desert to the goal.

Veterans of last year's race were in the lead as today's jaunt started. Ed Gardner, of Seattle, who finished eighth last year, won the first lap from New York City to Elizabeth. He covered the 25 1-10 miles in 1:59:30, averaging more than 12 miles an hour. Sam Richman, of New York, another veteran, was second and was followed by the Cool brothers of Belgium.

After passing through Philadelphia, the runners will cross Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Los Angeles. They will cover from 25 to 72 miles a day and are expected to finish around June 18.

Toronto — One very mournful stenographer is described by the Mail and Empire. She bought International Nickel last fall, $1,000 worth, and pyramided. Her paper profits ran up to $16,000. It's all gone now with her original $1,000.

Couple of Embryonic Champions

Two new personalities have been projected almost violently into the forefront of the golf news in the persons of Horton Smith and Helen Hicks, inset. Averaging less than 40 years between them, these youngsters will figure in golf news for a long time, and already rate as favorites for 1929 national titles.

With Major Leaguers In Training Camps

Miami, Fla.—Encouraged by the good playing of the veteran Dave Bancroft at shortstop, Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers plans to give Glenn Wright a tryout at second base. The former Pittsburgh shortstop can favor his ailing arm in making the shorter throw to first and the club will not lose his batting strength.

The Dodgers play the Boston Braves here today.

Shreveport, La.—The New York Giants pulled into Louisiana today with a record of 11 victories and only one defeat in exhibition games. Nine successive hits in the ninth inning, including a home run by Frank Hogan and another homer by Bill Terry with the bases full, gave them a 9 to 2 win over the Chicago White Sox in Dallas yesterday.

Tracksters Hold Indoor Practice

Track practice will continue at Salem High school all this week, despite the annual lay-off from studies in the spring vacation, Wilbur Springer, athletic director announced today.

Candidates are to be at the gym about 3:30 in order to be ready for practice at 4 o'clock. Workouts will continue for two hours every night of the week.

"I want to make this week count in preparing to defend our district and county championships, and all fellows who expect to continue to compete for places on the team must be present," Springer stated.

The first outdoor practices will probably be held Tuesday afternoon.

Mobile, Ala.—After taking on the Mobile Bears here today, the New York Yankees will start their long jaunt into Texas.

Texas fans may be treated to a few Ruthian homers, for the big fellow had his eye on the ball against the Pensacola team yesterday. He got three long wallops, two of which would have been home runs if he had not loafed on the base paths.

New Orleans.—The Cleveland Indians today awaited the invasion of the New York Giants with seven victories over the New Orleans Pelicans as their record to date. The Indians defeated the Pelicans 4 to 3 yesterday. Ken Holloway and Jimmy Zinn both pitched well for the American Leaguers.

Beaumont, Texas, April 1. — The Cubs like the Detroit Tigers so well, and vice versa, that the schedule has been rearranged to allow a three-game stand here between these clubs. They will play today, tomorrow and Wednesday, weather permitting. On this diamond yesterday, the Bruins whitewashed the Kansas City Blues, 4 to 0. The Cubs have acquired Pitcher Claude Jannard, recently made a free agent. He reports to work Thursday.

McKinney, Texas.—Having thrice been frustrated by rain, the Chicago White Sox will try again today to play that long scheduled game against a local team. This is the home town of Pitcher George Cox. Yesterday the Sox lost to the Giants at Dallas, 9 to 2.

Hagar of the Methodist church, Washingtonville; fifth by Dr. Brilhart; sixth, by Rev. J. M. Cotton, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Lisbon; seventh, by Rev. George D. Keister, pastor of Salem Lutheran church.

The student council of the high school, will hold its annual student council alumni banquet tonight in the home economics room, North Side school building. A program of interest is being planned by the committee in charge.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 13, held a short meeting on Friday evening in St. Paul's Lutheran chapel with Scoutmaster Mellinger and Assistant Scoutmaster Hall in charge. Only the regular routine of meeting was held.

Dean Groner, west of Leetonia, has accepted the position of delivering the Youngstown Vindicator, out of Salem to the rural subscribers. He delivers them the same afternoon they are printed. Mr. Groner covers about 60 miles each day.

Miss Helen Strouse was a Salem caller Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sheets who have been living in West Middlesex, Pa., for several years have returned to Leetonia to make their home. They are located in the Mrs. Elizabeth Warren apartment.

New York—Every year the most efficient and diligent female stenographer or typist in the employ of the Farmers Loan and Trust company is to receive $1,000. The will of Mrs. Anna Bowman Blake Dodd, writer, leaves a bequest for that purpose with the suggestion that the money be spent on a trip to Europe.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"CANARY MURDER MYSTERY"

Mystery is stalking in the State. "Who Killed the Canary?" is the cry of the hour. "The Canary Murder Case," one of the most baffling detective stories ever written, now made into an exciting moving picture by Paramount, will open at the State theater tonight.

Six men are suspected of the murder of the flashing Broadway chorus queen, "The Canary." One person killed her but circumstances and motives are established during the investigation of the crime which point to each of the six men as the murderer. Then the mystery seems to clear when "The Canary's" chorus girl friend is accused of the murder, the motive established and clues uncovered to prove her connection with the murder.

"Who Killed the Canary?" Police are baffled at the daring crime. Detectives scurry hither and yon, questioning, accusing, arresting. Then Philo Vance enters upon the case. Here is the amateur sleuth created by S. S. Van Dine, the famous author hiding behind a pen name, for his series of popular detective stories. Philo Vance, played by William Powell, discovers the true criminal in a unique manner.

"The Canary Murder Case" has everyone guessing. "Who Killed the Canary?" becomes the cry of the hour.

"THE BARKER"

The shill and the barker; the sucker and the hula girls—all the colorful figures of carnival life—are brought to the screen in First National's picturization of "The Barker," famous stage play by Kenyon Nicholson, which comes to the Grand theatre tonight for three days.

To portray the various roles in this dazzling story of life under the gay banners of the street shows, a cast of characters was gathered that has seldom been equalled for versatility.

Heading the list is Milton Sills in the title role. As the picturesque speller in front of the hula show, this popular star has seldom had a more virile or interesting part. He fairly "lives" the speller who takes such pride in his work before the flying banners of the hula side show.

Dorothy Mackall, co-starred as Lou, the amateur vamp, is an English girl, who won her way into the London Hippodrome and later the "Follies" in New York. This is one of Miss Mackall's finest roles, in a long and varied screen career.

Betty Compson, cast as Carrie, the hula dancer and sweetheart of the barker, started her career as concert and vaudeville violinist. She is both beautiful and accomplished. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has already distinguished himself on stage and screen, despite his youth. He appears as the Barker's son.

"ONE ROUND HOGAN"

From actual prize ring history comes the opening incident of Warner Bros. production of "One Round Hogan" starring Monte Blue, which is at the Royal.

Monte is seen in the title role as an aspiring young heavyweight who has acquired the habit of knocking his opponents out in the first round. The opening scene shows him as a beginner knocked out by his ex-champ father who is teaching him all the tricks that brought him fame and fortune.

James J. Jeffries appears in this role and vouches for the fact that the same thing happened in the case of Bob Fitzsimmons and his son, Bob, Jr., now prominent in Eastern boxing circles. Fitzsimmons, a champion in his time, trained his son to follow in his footsteps. Monte wins the championship. Shortly after his successful fight he launches with a young aspirant for the crown and meets his sister who asks him to persuade her brother to quit boxing.

An unscrupulous manager gets rid of Monte's opponent on the eve of a championship bout and substitutes the brother. Monte makes him promise to quit if he knocks him out in one round. Monte does, but the young fellow's manager hits him a blow when they are alone in his dressing room that causes heart failure. Monte, blamed for the death, loses his nerve. He tries to square himself with the girl, but she refuses.

Leila Hyams, James J. Jeffries, Tom Gallery, Frank Hagney, Texas Kid and Abdul, the Turk, are in the cast.

Behind locked doors Henry J. Ausstinn is being grilled and questioned. One Hour - Two Hours - Three Hours - pass - and still he maintains his innocence to any part of the $10,000 robbery. "All through the night he meets question after question with a sneer and utter silence. But the law is weaving its web. HENRY J. AUSSTINN - YOU ARE DOOMED! Your time has come - You are soon to pay for your dastardly deeds."

Trays—Dainty, Serviceable Ones—Help to Reduce Housework

When you want to achieve the most elegant effects in table service, but with the least amount of work, use trays. Not for a formal dinner, of course, but for the many small meals that occur during a day, breakfast or luncheon for two, afternoon tea, or late supper. Any time when a snack seems desirable, and the setting of a table too much like work, the tray is mother's best friend.

You can get trays in the most amazing variety of shape, style and price these days. They come square and oblong and round and oval; in wood, wicker, tin, papier mache, glass, copper, silver, brass, with handles and without; on removable stands and on wheels. If you want to be original you can make trays of your choice lace or linen doilies that are so lovely you hate to keep them safely locked up and also break your heart when they are used and soiled.

Have them mounted on wood covered with glass, and have little handles screwed on both ends. You can then proudly display your linen treasure without exposing it to the danger of being spotted. You can buy trays from ten cents up to several hundred dollars, and that being the case it is far better to have many cheap trays than a few costly ones. (You cover them up with your own dainty linen anyway, so that looks do not matter very much.) It's important, however, that the tray should be sturdy enough to support its use. Don't buy a very large tray that is so thin it wobbles in the middle. The very large round wicker trays must have a stand to support them. And incidentally this type is extremely convenient. The stand is collapsible so that when not in use they can be stowed anywhere taking up little space. Yet, set up, the wicker tray and stand turn into a low table large enough to accommodate service for six.

Half a dozen trays is none too many for any household. The small ones, 12 or 15 inches in length are very handy for drinks or ices. One or more of the larger trays about 20 or 24 inches long either square or oblong are suitable for the service of sandwiches, cake, tea or coffee and for afternoon tea. Several trays will make it possible for thoughtful guests to help the hostess serve a large party and anything that induces such a division of labor undoubtedly is worth providing.

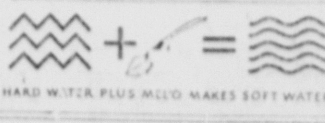

The most substantial of all is the serving tray on wheels and if you get into the habit of using this frequently it is one of the most helpful of modern labor savers. For breakfast the tray is wheeled into the living room or dining room wherever you prefer to eat. After breakfast it is wheeled back to the kitchen near the sink. No trotting back and forth with plates and silver—two trips to do the whole job of serving and clearing away. If you do all your own work you can serve dinner for two this way likewise.

Most of these trays on wheels come equipped with lower shelves. If you plan to serve a complete dinner without having to rise from the table once, the first course is on the top with the two drop leaves supported so that it looks like a sturdy round table. The two or three other courses are on the lower trays out of sight until needed. As one course is finished it is placed on the lower tray and the next course put on top. With good planning ahead anybody can serve a whole meal uninterrupted by trips to the kitchen in the middle.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, April 1.—Jazz jackets which are worn over the evening frock for the theatre or restaurant dinner as well as the cocktail party, will continue their vogue this spring and summer, judging from the many and varied ones to be seen at the chic couturiers.

Lovely old embroidered brocades make a large majority of them, in pale pastel shades, simple in cut

Is there a dirty ring around your dishpan?

There shouldn't be, because hard water can be softened with Melo. Soft water never leaves a dirty ring. Scum doesn't form in soft water. Dishes sparkle when washed in soft water. Soften the hard water in your town with Melo.

Melo is a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. Use it wherever you want soft water. It costs only 10 cents a can. Buy 5. Keep one in the kitchen, one in the laundry, and one in the bathroom.

and embroidered all over in crystal, strass or colored beads. A lame brocade in gold, silver and black is lined with black velvet and embroidered in strass, and a charming one comes of plain gold lame beaded all over in tiny coral beads, worn over a frock of figured mousselin de soie with a coral-pink design, embroidered here and there in pearls.

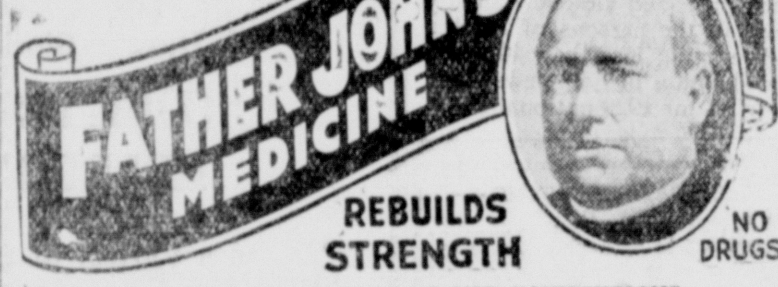

Jazz jackets of sparkling jet are worn over frocks of black georgette or those of tulle. Printed taffeta ones with huge red and orange flowers are worn with chiffon gowns of the same design.

One of fine wool in bright geranium-red has a narrow flounce at the edge and is worn with a frock of printed crepe de Chine in beige, black and red.

One leader makes some of his jazz jackets of a new wool lace which naturally needs no trimming. A frock of geranium georgette with graceful drapery at the sides is worn with a little jazz jacket of chenille lace of the same shade.

Strange to say, Dame Fashion is for once favoring a mode that is more than frivolous, for these jazz jackets are useful as well as beautiful.

Weird Superstitions Based On Weather Conditions Attacked

Washington, March 29.—Curiously persistent are the various superstitions relating to the effect of the moon on the weather or on the farm crops.

One of the most unreasonable of these beliefs, a federal Weather Bureau expert said today, is that if the horns of the new crescent moon point downward, it is a "wet" moon, portending rain.

As a matter of fact, this expert declared, on any given date the position of the crescent moon is always the same in places having the same latitude, so the same kind of weather would necessarily prevail, were this sign of any value, throughout a belt of latitude extending around the globe.

Equator Proof
Again, near the equator, in a part of the world notorious for its heavy rainfall, the young moon is generally in an almost horizontal position, in accordance with the proverb, it is almost always a "dry" moon, he added.

If the moon could be viewed from the North or South Pole, on the other hand, its position would be, as usual, the same.

I am unable to understand why some one, who wishes to retire, does not buy the Frank Cook home on McKinley Avenue, and thereby have a beautiful home and, by looking after the rentals, have an income which secures and insures their future comfort. This home has 17 rooms, six rooms and bath on first and second floor and a suite of five rooms on third floor. Lot 95x217, large two-story garage, drilled well with Deming pump; fruit, shade and excellent garden. Please call me for an appointment and give me an opportunity to have you thank me for calling this to your attention.
